問題 3

Ayaka: Hi, John.

John: Hi, Ayaka.

Ayaka: How is life in Tokyo? You just came to Japan one week ago, right?

John: I'm enjoying it very much. There are a lot of things I don't know, but everyone around me is kind and teaches me about them.

Ayaka: That's good. Why did you come to Japan?

John: I was born in New York, but my family and I soon moved to Washington, D.C. There are a lot of cherry trees there, and the cherry blossoms are very famous.

Ayaka: Really? I didn't know that. So, you became interested in Japan because of the cherry blossoms, right?

John: Yes. I heard that cherry trees, sakura, came from Japan. So, I wanted to come to see a lot of cherry blossoms here in Japan.

Ayaka: Are there any events in Washington in the spring?

John: Yes. We have a festival to enjoy sakura. At the festival, we can enjoy many events such as parades and traditional Japanese musical performances.

Ayaka: Wow! That sounds exciting. Do you know about hanami in Japan?

John: No, I don't. Is it like a festival?

Ayaka: It's a little different from a festival. In Japan, a lot of people see sakura and have lunch under the trees. They have a good time with their families or friends. It's a popular event with a long history.

John: Sounds interesting.

Ayaka: The best time to see sakura in Midori Park is this weekend. Do you want to go there with me?

John: I'd love to.

Ayaka: I'll make lunch and buy some spring sweets!

John: Spring sweets?

Ayaka: For example, sakuramochi is a traditional Japanese sweet eaten in the spring. It is wrapped in a cherry leaf.

John: Wow! I want to try it. I'm looking forward to hanami this weekend.

第三問 次の英文は、コウイチ(Koichi)がオーストラリアにいる友人のアン(Ann)に送った電子メールと、アンからの返信です。この英文を読んで、あとの問いに答えなさい。

To : ann001@lightnet.jp
Subject : Pennies
Dear Ann, Hello. Two years (①) since you left Japan. How are you? I'm fine but very busy because I'm preparing for the school festival with my friends. I'm going to play the guitar on stage with my band members. By the way, I watched some news on TV last week. They talked about a one-cent coin. Another name for it is penny. In 1992, the Australian government stopped making one-cent coins. I also learned that one-cent coins aren't used anymore in some other countries. I was surprised at the news and want to know more about it. Why did the Australian government stop making one-cent coins? Can you tell me the reason if you know anything about it? I hope to hear back from you soon. Koichi

To : k.takada@sakuranet.jp
Subject : Re : Pennies
Dear Koichi, Hi. Thank you for your email. Now, I'm studying Japanese harder than before. I want to visit Japan again someday. You ②(1 used / 2 know / 3 aren't / 4 want / 5 why / 6 to / 7 pennies) in Australia, right? Actually, I have never used them, but I know some of the reasons for it. First, in Australia, a lot of people use cards, such as credit cards, when they buy something. So, not only coins but also bills aren't used very often. Also, since the beginning of the 21st century, electronic money has become more popular. In Japan, a lot of people use electronic money, such as Suica, when they ride trains or buses, right? Two years ago, I used ③ it in Japan and found it was convenient. Second, it costs more than one cent to make a one-cent coin. I hear that in Japan, making a one-yen coin costs about three yen. In New Zealand, Canada, and South Africa, one-cent coins aren't used, either. These days, some people in the United States also don't think that it's good to make and use one-cent coins. The Japanese government may stop making one-yen coins in the future, so when I visit Japan next time, I may not be able to use them. Do you have any plans for your winter vacation? In December and January, it is summer in Australia. Australia is rich in nature, so why don't you come to my country? You can see beautiful sunsets and enjoy swimming in the sea. I'm sure you'll be excited. I'm (④~に会うことを楽しみに待っている) you again someday. Ann

第 四 問 次の英文はゴミ問題とその対応の例について述べた英文である。次の英文を読んで、あとの問いに答えなさい。

Do you know that companies around the world are working hard to solve a lot of problems? There are many problems in the world, and garbage is one of them. For example, . In Japan, the amount of food that each person wasted was about 50 kg in 2015. Also, we throw away a lot of paper trash at workplaces and schools. Most of the garbage, such as food waste and paper trash, is usually burnt. Burning garbage is bad for the environment. Now, let's see some examples of things companies and schools are doing to reduce paper trash.

A company that publishes books and magazines is working hard to reduce the amount of paper that is used while employees are editing them. As a result, the company reduced paper trash. The number of companies like this will increase in the near future.

Another example can be seen in schools. Even now, many students go to school with heavy textbooks, dictionaries, and notebooks made of paper, and they have to bring them back home. And during class, teachers give students many handouts. Also, students get a lot of printed paper with school information, and they have to keep it at home. (③), in some schools, tablets and PCs are used in many classes, and students work on problems displayed on them. So, those students don't have to use paper very much. Also, they can get school information online more often these days.

④(1 are / 2 we / 3 a lot / 4 there / 5 can / 6 things / 7 of) do to reduce paper trash in our lives. For example, we can use our smartphones to check the calendar or our schedules. We can also read newspapers or books online. Online versions of newspapers and books are usually cheaper to read than paper versions. This is another good point. If you have to use paper, you should think about recycling it instead of throwing it away. It is very important to think about the things each of us can do to reduce paper trash in our daily lives.
